"I am thrilled to be working with MetWest. They offer innovative and exciting solutions for a variety of film applications. I am excited to market and sell a product that will help the A&D, Construction, and end user communities with their graphic challenges. I believe that this alliance will provide a great addition to the suite of manufactures that we currently represent, further enforcing my ultimate goal of being a go-to for design solutions and products," says Ressa.

Kelly Taylor, CEO of MetWest, is very excited about the alliance. "While growth is important to me, finding the right partners who share our vision and culture are essential. I believe that Chris and his Design Lines team will be a welcome addition to MetWest helping make 2021 a great year."
